Promise of More Ring Indictments.

Breach of Contract Case and Suit for Heavy Damages.

Keyser, the Ring plumber, appeared before the Grand Jury on Friday and gave testimony, it is said, which so seriously implicated various persons in the Ring frauds that their indictment is certain. These indiciments will be presented this week. Among them is one against Peter B. bweeny for forgery or grand larceny.

Judge Brady in Supreme Court, Chambers, yesterday granted a temporary injunction against the proprietor of the Hockauff Garden, restraining him from giving any further performances until after payment of his license fee.

Charles Reilly, No. 303 Front street, and Owen O'Rorke, No. 543 Grand street, were yesterday charged, before Commissioner Shields, with duing business as liquor dealers without paying the special tax required by law. They were each held in $500 ball for examination on Tuesday next.

Fernando Wood has obtained from Judge Donohue, in Supreme Court, Chambers, a modification of the Tweed lis pendens, relieving property at the southeast corner of Fourth avenue and 105th atreet, with the consent of the Attorney General, from the effect of the lis pendens. The property was bought by Mr. Wood from William B. Scranton and his wife, and he holds it, as he declares, without any secret lien in layor of Tweed.

In the suit brought by Albert Godman against the city, which was recently argued before Judge Donchue in Special Term of the Supreme Court, a decision was given yesterday. Plaintiff was interpreter of the Sixth Judicial District Court, and se sued for $100 salary for Janury, 1875. The only defence was that he was an inspector of election during that month. The argument came up on a demurrer to the answer, and Judge Donohue decided that the provisions of the charter forbidding the holding of two offices applies only to city offices; that inspectorship of election is not a city, but a judicial office, and that there being no equity In the defence of the city judgment should be given for the plaintiff.

Three years ago Edward McCabe was arrested for debt and discharged on jurnishing ball in $500. His ball surrendered him in exoneration last May and he tendered Sheriff Conner a second bond, which was refused on the ground that it should be undertaking not to leave the limits of the county. A writ of habeas corpus taken out on behalf of the prisoner, was dismissed by Judge Lawrence, and to-day the matter came up in Supreme Court, Chambers, on an application for an order to compel the Sheriff to accept the bond, Mr. Spelissy appearing for the relator and Mr. A. Goodwin for the Sheriff. After argument Judge Brady decided that a satisfactory undertaking to appear is enough and must be accepted by the Sherid, and that a limit bond is not required.

BLOCKADING A NEIGHBOR'S REAR WINDOWS.

Among cases just tried before Chief Justice Daly at the Equity Term of the Common Pieas, was an important one involving the law of essements. The plaintiff, Jonathan N. Havens, a lumber merchant, owned the French flat No. 125 East Fiftieth street. which was sixty feet west of Lexington avenue, his lot being twenty feet wide by forty-nine feet deep, and his house extending over the whole of the lot. The defendant, Christian Kieln, owned a house and lot on Lexington avenue, which was forty-nine feet north of Fitteth street, his lot being twenty feet wide by eighty deep, and his house being sixty feet deep, so that the corners of the two houses just touch each other, and kien's yard twenty feet square was just back of Havens' house, havens' rear windows fifteen in number, looked out on Kiein's yard, the shutters opened out over Kiein's yard, and in the shutters opened out over Kiein's yard, and in the shutters opened out over Kiein's yard, and in the shutters opened out over Kiein's yard, and in the shutters opened out over Kiein's yard, and in the shutters opened out over Kiein's yard, and in the shutters opened out over Kiein's yard, and in the shutters out of each lin November list Kiein thought a would stop Havena' tenants from looking much his back yard and from opening their shutters out over his land, and from getting any lizht and alvinto their back rooms. Perhaps the cooking of five breakfasts and five dinners every day so close to his property was offensive to his nostries, and, perhaps, if he could do this, it would make flavours' property so worthless that he could buy it in for a small amount and then take away the obstructions, restoring the property to its original value and making a very nice little secondarion, so he are forty-nine feet north of Fit tieth street, his lot being amount and then take away the obstructions, restoring the property to its original value and making a very nice little speculation. So he sut up a scaffolding, forty five teet high and twenty feet wide, on his own land up against Havens' house, and nalled boards to it opposite each window, having first closed Havens' snutters, so that each window had a cap on, which fitted so tight and made Havens' rooms as dark as Erebus, that although it was broad daylight toey might well be called nightoaps. Havens obtained an injunction restraining Klein from keeping the scaffolding up, and on Wednesday Judge Daly rendered shall judgment in Havens' favor, deciding that Havens has a right to light and air through his rear windows and to open his shuters over Klein's sard, and to use the fire escarces as occasion requires. Klein's attempt to speculate in real estate is not so far a success. He is entitled to the honor of being the first to discover a new way of "obering?" real estate, but it is likely to prove expensive. Not only does he have to pay his carpenter for putting up the scaffold but also for tearing it down, as well as the costs of the action to compet nim.

SUPREME COURT-SPECIAL TERM. Before Judge Donobue.

ACTION FOR ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS.
Duncan vs. Dewitt.-The plaintiff and delendant were residents of the State of New Jersey; nearly ait of the wilnesses resided there. The plaintiff claimed to recover of the defendant $100,000 damages for alloged breach of an alleged contract. The defendant claimed there was not the slightest foundation for the action, and wanted the trial to come off. He attended with his counsel, S. A. Noyes and D. McMahon, and with his witnesses from New Jersey, a number of times. The plaintiff did not present himself ready for trial with his witnesses. Finally, on motion of Mr. McMahon, who pronounced in open court that the plaintiff had no case, the Jungs at Circuit dismissed the plaintiff's action, with coats. Motion was then made to open the default and to let the plaintiff into try the cause. Mr. Hell was heard for the plaintiff and B. McMahon for the defendant. Judge Doubles deared the motion, delivering the following sufficient.

heard for the plaintin and b. Momanon for the decendant, Joage Doubles decided the motion, delivering the following opinion:—
In this case bout the parties reside in New Jersey: the subject matter of the action is in New Jersey: the subject matter of the action is in New Jersey: Under these circumstances, unless there are facts showing a good resson for opening the default, the parties should be allowed to linguist in that state. It seems to me that the case does not snow such a state of facts as would eatthe the plainting to the relief he asked. The action of the plainting to the relief he asked. The action of the plainting in the call of the case at Circuit rather impressed me with the feeling that plainting oil not intend to try his cause when the jury had been sworm in the cause and no valid excuse for putting of the case with a number of windesses in court from New Jersey. As a pure matter of isyon, and with the notice that the cause mast be tried when again called, the cause was put over, and, when signife called, an untruth was told to procure a further adjournment. To allow this default to be opened would be simply to encourage a bail practice. Motion denied.

What constitutes a cause of acuse of action.

WHAT CONSTITUTES A CAUSE OF ACTION. James Snodgrass vs. Kasimer Krenkle.-The suit was brought to recover $4,942 65 on a bond given by defendant in a suit pending in the Court of Common Pleas of this city and county on an adjournment of the trial. The delendant demarred that the companies did not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. The case was argued by Mr. Bildreth for the defendant and by D. McManon for the plaintiff. Judge Dono-hue delivered the following opinion, overruing the semurcer and rendering judgment for plaintiff.—

the demurrer and rendering judgment for planting.

The complaint allegas that a suit was pending in which the assignor of the planting was plainting and certain other parties defendants; that the defendants in that suit, having moved for an adjournment, it was granted in the giving of the undertaking in suit; that that undertaking was to pay the judgment if execution was returned unsatisfied, and the complaint alleges that the execution has been so returned. The complaint further alleges that the plainting here. The complaint alleges that the plainting here. The complaint alleges that the debt belongs to the plainting, and the amount is due to him. It is to be presumed that the assignment to him was in writing. To this the defendant demars, on the ground that as the understanding was to pay the plaintiff in the original suit, without adding his assigns, no suit will lie in the name of the present plaintiff. Thus, in practice, it seems to me, the code intended to abolish and leave the action to be brought in the name of the real plaintiff. If the defendant is right and the original plaintiff had died before judgment, no action would lie in the name of his executors. It seems to me the complaint substantially complies with the code, and that the grounds of demurrer stated are insufficient. I will, in the settlement of the order, hear the defendant as to the right to amend, if he has merits.

TOMBS POLICE COURT. Before Judge Kilbreth.

A NEW PHASE IN THE DUNCAN-SHERMAN BOB-BERY.

Two days ago a telegraphic despatch was received from London, Ont., Canada, by the police authorities, stating that William P. Leslie, late receiving teller of Duncan, Sherman & Co., bankers, now under arrest and on his way to this city on a charge of robbery, to the amount of $25,000, including $12,000 in gold certificates, had confessed that Ella Shaw, of this city, was a partner in the conspiracy whereby the robbery was effected, and the prompt arrest of that person was effected. Yesterday Miss Shaw was taken before Justice Kilbreth. She is a blonde, of twenty-two or twenty-tarce, plump and rather good-looking. She was neatly attired, and her fingers sparkled with diamonds. Her counsel demanded an examination on the ground that his client's arrest was without justification, and asserted his ability to prove her innocence. An examination was set down for Monday next. When the prisoner learned that Leslie had been captured in Canada by Pinkerton's detectives she field the city and was captured at the Beach House, Coney Island. The acquaintance of the absconding cashier with her dates ally about a year back, and her wiles have led Leslie to ruin. He has been brought up in Duncan, Sherman & Co.'s banking house and till he met this woman he was considered a most exemplary man. He is a native of inversess, Scotland, and is the son of very respectable parents. When Leslie left here he fied by the New York Central Railroad to Suspension Bridge, and thence rounded his way to London, Ontario, Detective Pinkerton stated yesterday that he expected to capture a considerable amount of the stolen $25,000, and for this reason important developments are expected next week. partner in the conspiracy whereby the rob

FIFTY-SEVENTH STREET COURT. Before Judge Kasmire.

OFFICIALS REPRIMANDED. The fitthy condition of the rooms and hallways of this court for some time past has been the subject of remark more than once. It was finally noticed by Judge Kasmire yesterday. The trouble is tuat there are two janitors to attend to the cleaning of the building, which one person could easily do, and one vies with the other as to which of them shall do the work. John Burke is oministy recognized by the magistrates, and him Judge Kasmire called up yesterday, and, after administering a severe reprimand, threatened that it the court was not kept cleaner in the inture he would have the janitors' pay (which is now due) stopped. The court adjourned at ten o'clock A. M. until this morning to enable the cleaning to be done thoroughly.

Collins sold out his share to another man and then went to work for him. Spelman lay claim to some of the property sold by Collins and borrowed a revolver before going to take possession of it. Collins inseriered with bim and Spelman threatened to shoos him. His arrest followed, and he was held for trial at this Court in $1,300 but!

THE GREAT UNWASHED.

SCENES AT THE PUBLIC BATHS-TWENTY THOU SAND SWIMMERS CROWD TO THEIR DOORS-ONE-ARMED AND ONE-LEGGED EXPERTS.

Notwithstanding the numerous appeals which have been made to the Board of Public Works during the last three years, the free swimming baths have not been increased. The two which Boss Tweed had constructed are still the only ones at the disposal of the poorer classes. The need for more ree swimming baths has been eloquently set forth in editorials, resolutions and petitions, and the facts from which the necessity has grown have been stated and restated time and again. When it is understood that in one day between 12,000 and 13,000 men and boys go to oue of the baths, to take a cool wash, some idea may be had of the popularity of the institution.

The two baths are situated respectively at the foot of Fifth street, East River, and foot of West Eleventh street, North River. These baths are open from five A. M. till nine P. M. To the east side baths the Seventeenth, Eighteenth, Thirteenth and Seventh ward children have to come if they wish to have a bath. To the West Eleventh street bath the Third, Fifth, Eighth, Ninth, Fifteenth and Sixteenth ward people have to resort when they are anxious to take a douche. The average attendance, as before stated, is about 13,000 daily to each of these places, and many who come to the dock never get inside the bath house The theory of "the survival of the fittest" finds a rare exemplification in the action of the unruly crowd which clamors every evening at the portals of the bath. Only the sturdlest can hope to get at all near the gateway, the feeble and infirm ones being forced to the outer periphers of the crowd, notwithstanding the efforts of the policemen to protect them. If the efforts of the policemen to protect them. If the proposition to have a bath for each of the tigstly populated wards of the city was carried into effect all this crushing, crowding and injustice would be obviated and there would be room for all. As it is there is no accommodation even for those who, by main force, succeed in getting inside. They are, in many justances, crowded, six and eight into one of the amail boxes, and have barely time to undress, we themselves and then be hustled out to make room for another batch, who in their turn will be similarly treated. Saturday might, of all others in the week, is the greatest night for crowds at the baths. The docks interally swarm with dirty, ragged urchins, who howl and scamper to and fro like wild beasts. Their hideous howls of 'Hoy, Mickey f' 'Hay, Slob'!' 'Hay, Skinny!'' and 'Hay, Jim !'' can be heard for blocks around. At midday the bath is cleared of a batch or swimmers and held in reddiness for the reception of workingmen and boys who wish to take a bath before dinner. From twelve till one none but workingmen and boys are allowed in, and although this rule is rigidly enforced, "repeaters," as they are called, succeed in evading the vigilance of both policemen and bathkeeper. At the Fifth street dock is moored one of the garbage boats that pily between down town and the Harism flats, and there being a tobacco factory in the vicinity all the refuss from it is dumped on this boat. Yesterday, while the Herallo reporter was contemplating the unsavory mess on the deck of one of these soows, he noticed two little fellows industriously rubbing tobacco stalks between teel wet hands. When they had completely stalled proposition to have a bath for each of the tinckly of these stown, so noticed two fittle links in-dustriously rubbing tobacco stalks between their wet hands. When they had completely stained their fingers they crawled upon the dick and made straight for the bata house. It being workmen's hours they were challenged at the doer and informed of the fact. Porthwith they said they were formed of the fact. Forthwith they said they were working boys, they worked for the tobaccoractory on the next block, and, producing their hands as evidence, they were allowed in. In speaking to Mr. McNeal, who has charge of the boys in the bath, the reporter learned that this was an old trick of the repeaters. From six to seven the working men have another exclusive hour and from seven till nine they are also admitted, though it is preferred that they come earlier.

THE SIGHTS AT THE BATHS.

mitted, though it is preferred that they come earlier. The scenes to be witnessed at the baths are trely amusing. The tricks and capers the boys play on each other are without number, and no end of merriment is occasioned. "Chawin' a feller's clothes," is a very favorite form of amusement and is performed in this way:—A stocking of shirt is wet in the bath and then a knot is tied, which it is next to impossible to loosen until the article is dried. When caught at this pleasant pastime the perpetrator generally carries a tender ridge on the bulbous part of his anatomy away with him from the bath, for such is said to be the results of a tip from Mr. Long's ratian.

STRANGE SWIMMERS.

Among the requenters of the Fifth street bath are several cripples and maimed persons. Among the number is a one-atmed newsdealer, whose swimming is a miracle, as few men whose anatomy is perfect can cope with him in speed. Strange to say, this man never learned to swim when he had both arms, but when he lound himself with one he thought of the certainty of his fate should be ever be thrown or fall overboard. Immediately he set about learning to swim, and the second summer of his efforts was rewarded, for he was able to get along slowly. He did not relax his efforts, and now he is an expert. A one-legged organ grinder also calls at the bath and has many a pleasant bout with the one-armed paper carrier. The organ grinder learned to swim before the war, Guring which he lost his leg, and he had only to adapt himselt to his above has one of the most graceful halads at the bath. THE SEIZURE OF THE STEAM YACHT OCTAVIA.

Yesterday morning Mr. Algernon S. Sullivan called upon Collector Arthur at the Custom House and formally demanded that the English steam yacht Octavia, seized last Wednesday by the Collector, be forthwith released, and that she be granted her clearance papers and allowed to proeed on her voyage. The Collector replied that he was in communication with the Secretary of the Treasury, and that the United States District Attorney was in Washington with reference to the matter. AT THE BRITISH CONSUL'S.

In reply to questions pur by a Herald reporter the British Vice Consul, Mr. Pierrepont Edwards, stated:—"An act of Congress promotis our giving the register of a British vessel back to its, owner or owners until the vessel has been cleaned by the Customs authorities, and this rule noids good with reference to the Octavia."

Mr. Frederick Schmidt, who sold her to her present owner, Mr. Robert T. Balabridge, a British subject, says:—"I sold the Octavia for legitimate purposes, and I think her present seizure an unjustifiable outrage."

In conversation with a well known steamship broker on the subject, he said:—"This is an old story. The Spanish sples in this city bave brought about the wrongini seizure of the Quaker City, Lee, Catharine Whiting and Meteor, steamers alleged to be intended for Cuban flibusters. Some of the tricks of the Spanish sples are putting emory in the journals of the machinery, putting emory in the journals of the steamer North Point, in Brooklyn, when she was being "watched" by Francis Leroy Norton, a Spanish detective, now in Ludlow Street Jail, bribling watchmen, &c.
